Foreword

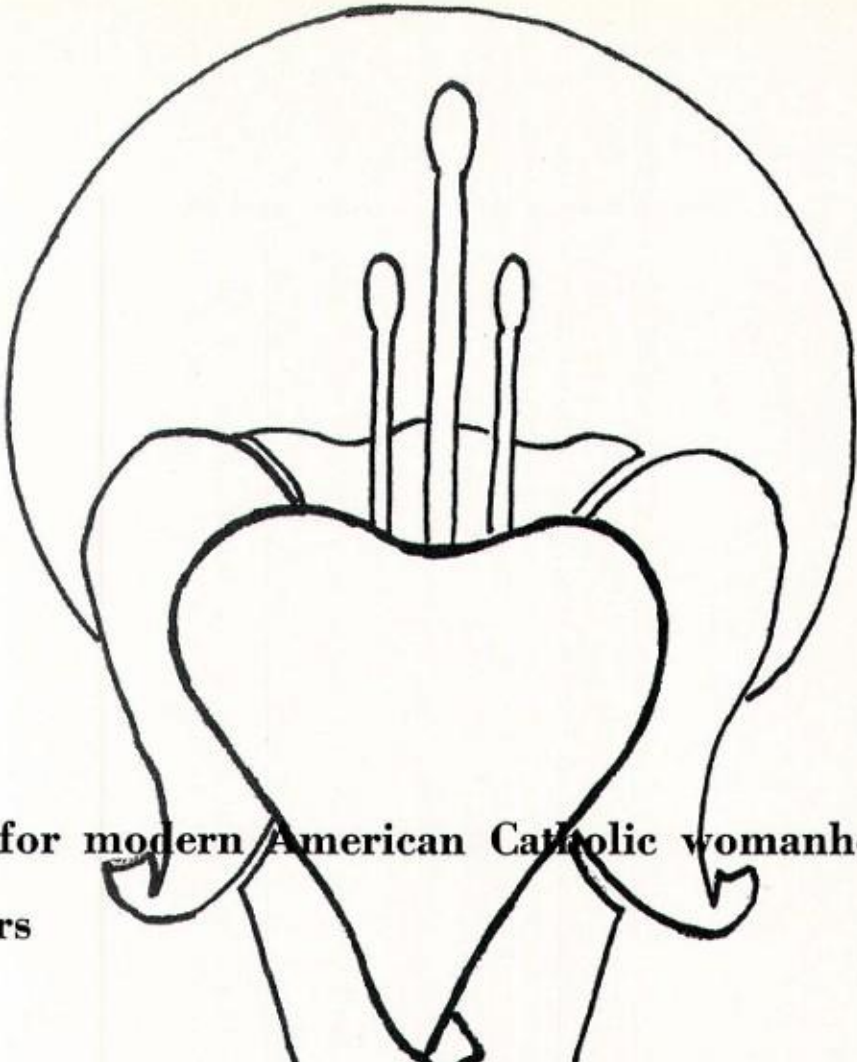

Today we seek the answer to an imminent problem—the problem encountered by all those who live in the Age of Space. Shall we proceed to solve this problem animated only with a desire to produce more effective missiles or to launch satellites superior to those of our Russian neighbors? Or shall America eventually renew the face of the earth by producing men and women more human and noble in character, more holy, more pure and gentle in manner, rejuvenated in the Christian spirit which gave birth to our American way of life?

Modern education needs not to increase its science courses. Men and women of our day need to learn the SCIENCE of holy living and how greatly the truly noble woman FIGURES in forming a lasting civilization. A woman, apart from being “a masterpiece of God’s creation”, possesses characteristics which bind her to the destiny of mankind. All women must realize the crying need the modern world has for good women.

Our pattern for education, therefore, is the PERFECT WOMAN. Our teacher, who will educate us into Christ-like humanity is MARY, the incomparable woman. It is as to an ideal teacher that we turn to Mary to assist in the spiritual, intellectual, and cultural growth of our students at Seton High School.

No teacher can produce lasting or balanced growth in her students unless she first lives the principles she strives to teach. Mary is the lovely pattern whom Christ contemplated and imitated in His humanity. What Mary did for the human development of her Son, she will do for those who submit to her powerful influence. Her charming simplicity will solve the complexities of our age; her deep humility will eradicate our pride; her spirit of obedience will curtail the false liberties of our century. It is Mary, the ideal teacher, the perfect woman, who has supplied the theme for our 1958 yearbook—

EDUCATION FOR AMERICAN CATHOLIC
WOMANHOOD

Education for modern American Catholic womanhood will train leaders

to develop to the fullest their inborn capacities to stimulate activity of mind and soul

to make a better world by the cultivation of womanly grace and tenderness

Dedication

*To You, most perfect of women,
The Pattern for Christian living,
We consecrate our efforts
To produce a blueprint

"It is their duty to frame a pattern

His Excellency, Archbishop Francis P. Keough

His Excellency, Bishop Jerome Sebastian

and to stimulate us to imitate it."

HIERARCHY

If a woman is to be a woman, she cannot become so in sections. She must be educated spiritually, mentally, culturally, socially, and physically. In each of these spheres of education, acting simultaneously, comes various directors and influences. For spiritual training Setonites look to our Archbishop, our bishop and our priests. These supply lessons in doctrine and guidance which aid immensely in the formation of Catholic womanhood.

Right Reverend Monsignor John J. Duggan, Pastor, Saints Philip and James Church

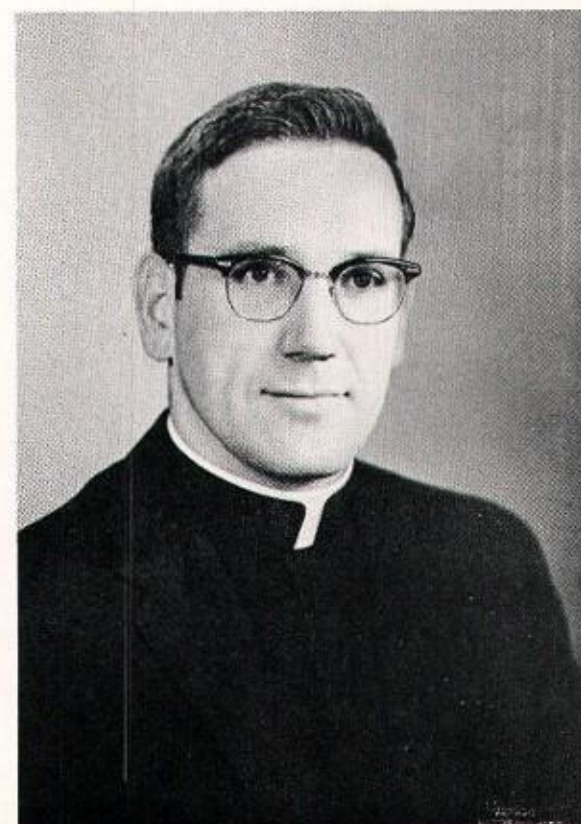

Reverend Francis X. McGuire, Assistant Pastor, Saints Philip and James Church

Reverend John C. Callopy, Assistant Pastor, Saints Philip and James Church

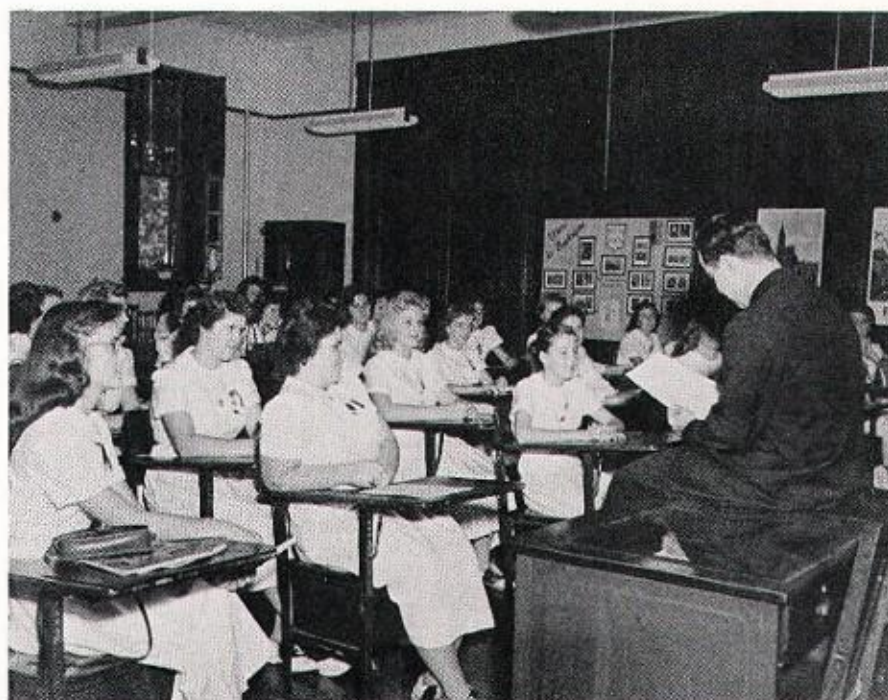

Reverend John E. Awalt, Assistant Pastor, Saints Philip and James Church

They are called to impart truth

Father McClimont gives benediction to the students following the reception of the Children of Mary.

Father Collopy from Sts. Philip and James parish, comes across the street weekly to give instructions to III-7.

Father Colman C.M. takes time out from his study at Hopkins University to give a course in Apologetics to IV-5.

Opening Mass was celebrated by Father O'Brien, assistant pastor at Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

and the principles of right living.

PARISH LOYALTY

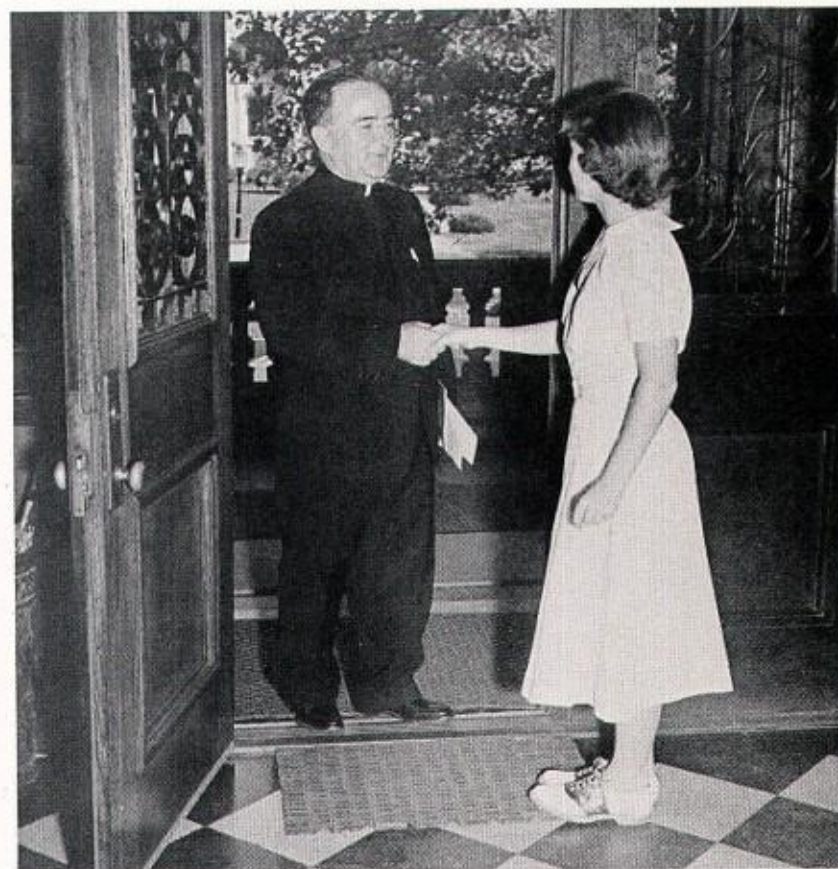

Parish Loyalty Week is observed at Seton with the express purpose of stimulating interest in one's parish. The highlight of this week is an assembly which is attended by parish priests from all over the city. A chairman, usually a Senior, serves as hostess and guide while the priest gives instruction to the girls from his parish.

Father Altmann, from Our Lady of Good Counsel parish, holds the attention of his parish group at an informal discussion.

Leona Schmoll, acting as hostess for Blessed Sacrament parish, chats interestingly with Father Schmidt.

Judy Tochtermann welcomes Father Linn, our guest speaker during Parish Loyalty Week.

LAY FACULTY

At Seton High, we are fortunate to have a lay faculty, backing us up, always ready to lend a helping hand or to extend an encouraging word when needed. In them we see women, who have carried the true spirit of Christianity into the teaching profession. We thank them for their good example and fine teaching.

Fifth row—Louise Wineke, Mary Jo Wolf, Mary Carol Wright, Doris Yurek, Iola Zang, Cleo Zink, Susan Zinnert, Kathleen Ziolkowski, R. Stankis.

Sister Constantia confers with Mr. and Mrs. Humphries, the parents of a future Freshman regarding the rules and regulations of Seton.

The freshmen proudly demonstrate to their parents the talents they have acquired in their music classes.

FRESHMEN

Freshmen are now but laying a foundation for Womanhood. As they look ahead, their task may seem long and arduous, but in reality, Freshmen, your days at Seton will pass too quickly. Make use of each opportunity to develop into a woman of whom your Alma Mater will be proud.

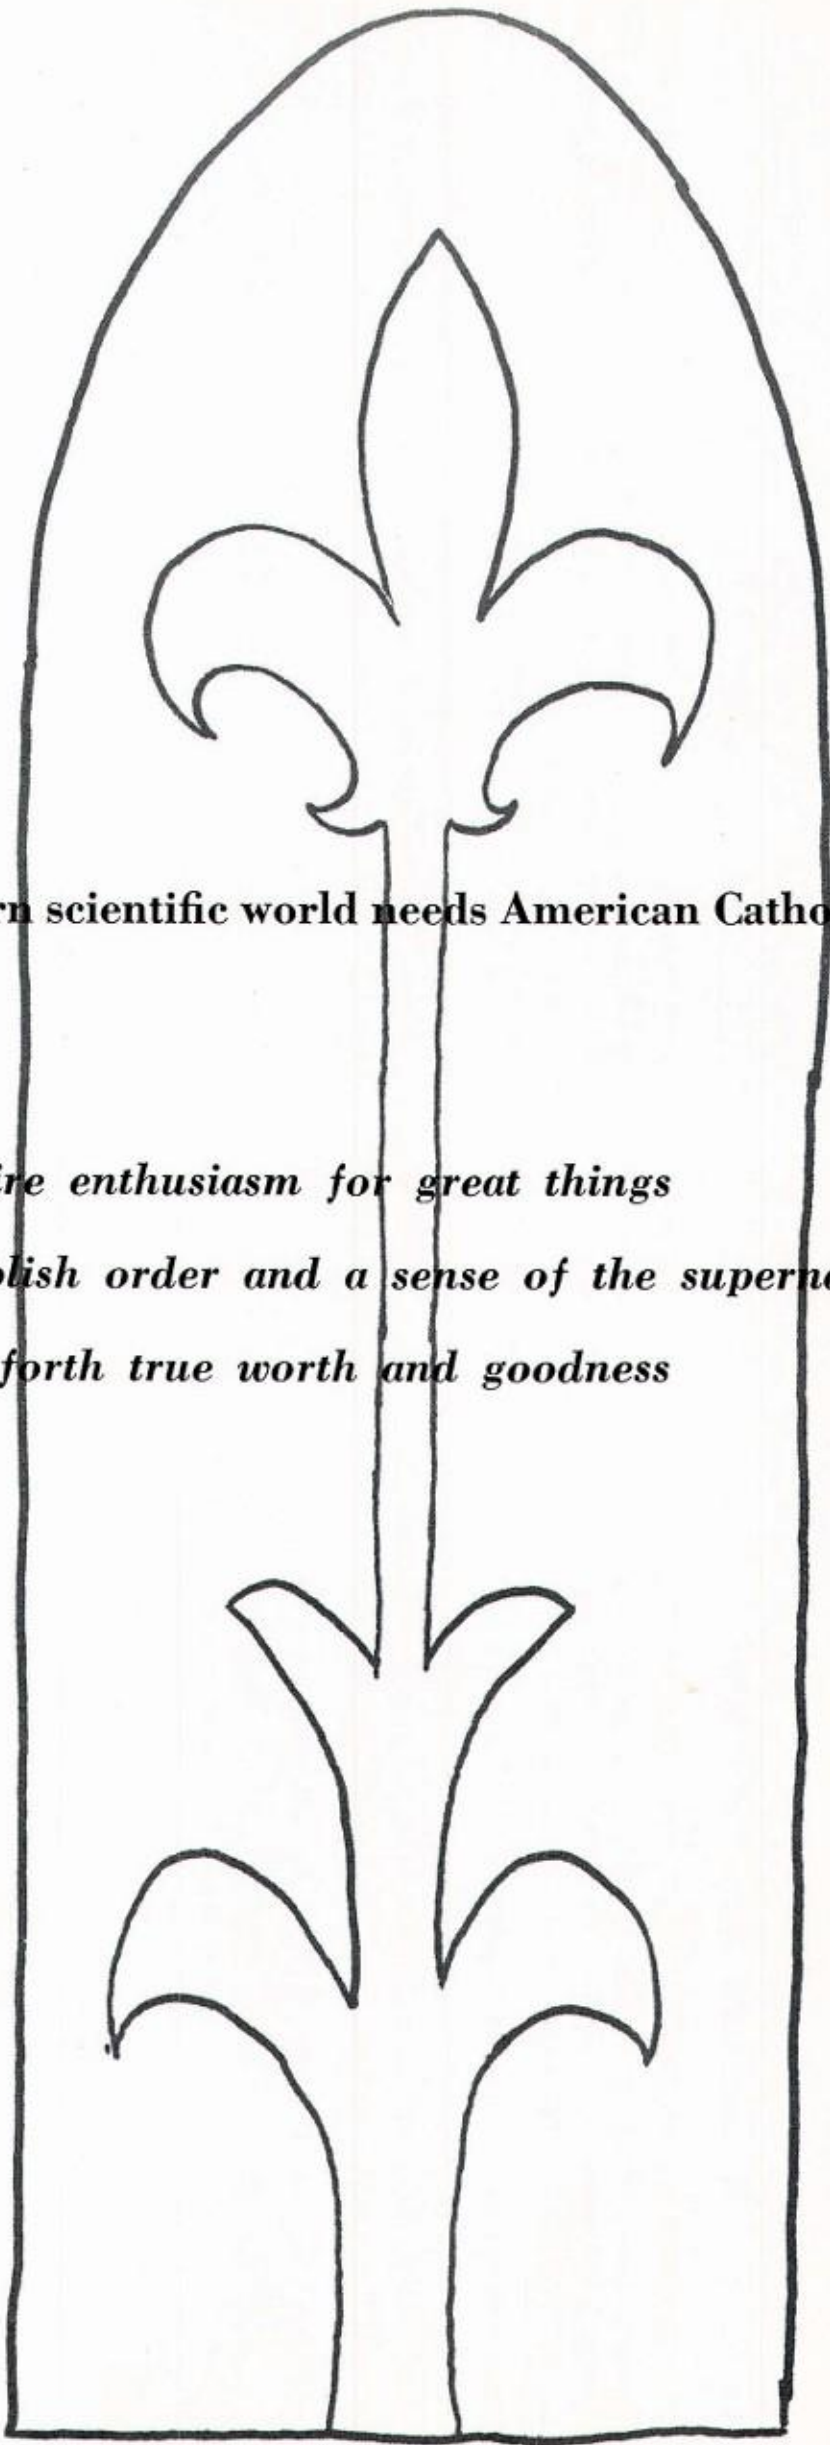

Three freshman portray the diligent study habits of the Seniors when they were Sophomores.

B.E.T.O.

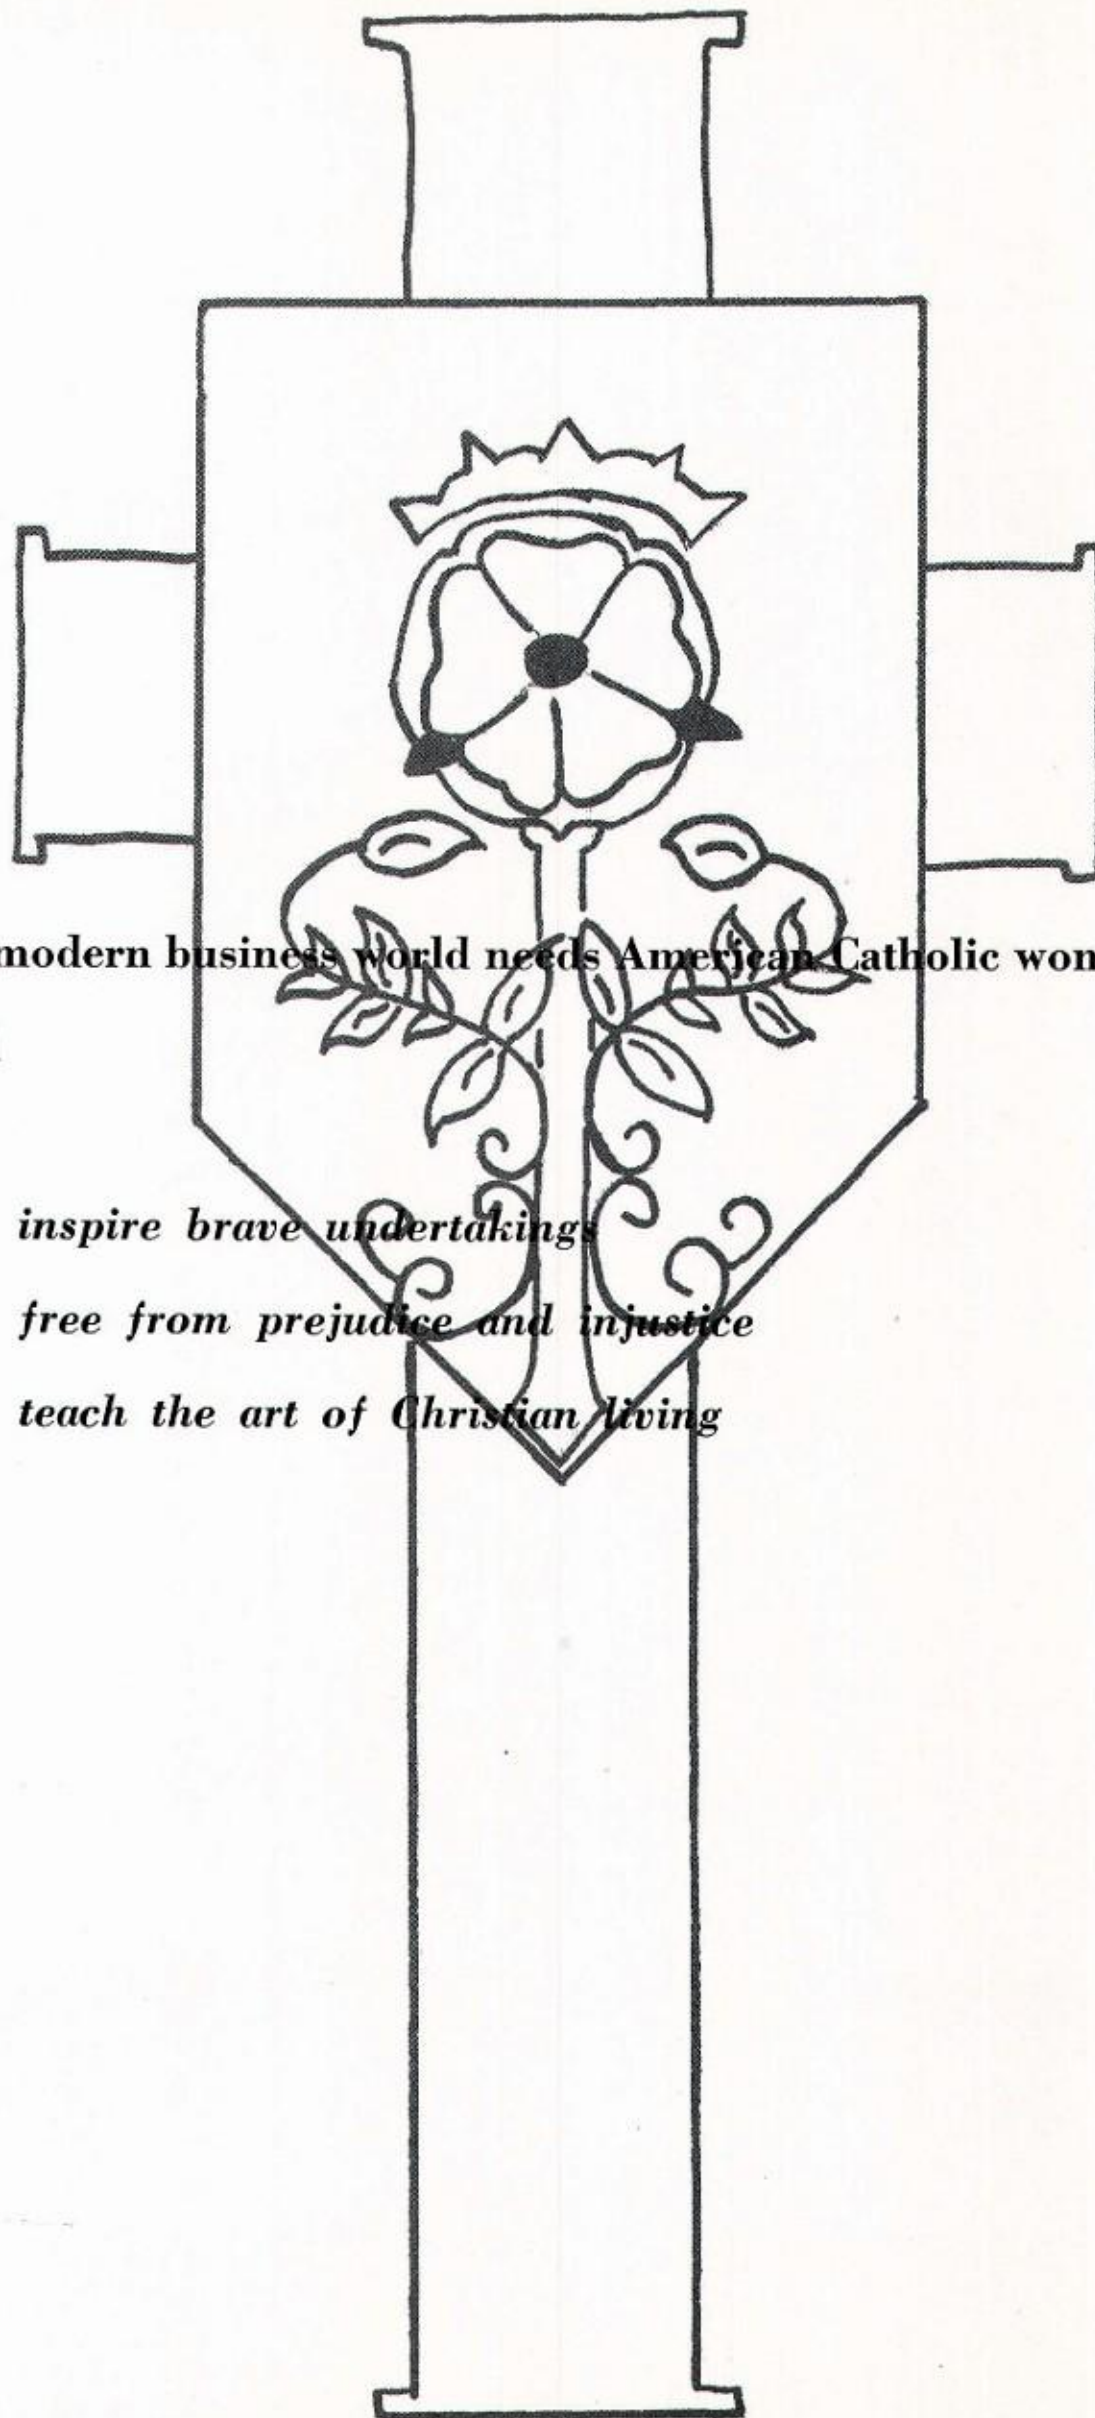

Membership in the B.E.T.O. Club is open to all sophomores who attain a B plus average in biology during the first quarter. Through their Biological Experiments, Thought and Observations, "budding" scientists begin to see more fully that God is everywhere. Research Laboratory Films, speakers who offer the benefits of their experiences, field trips, scientific skits and plays and an occasional party, all help to make the B.E.T.O. Club both instructive and enjoyable. "Look out, birds!" became a much repeated phrase when the members decided to start a bird watching program. Although this turned out to be more fun than work, the girls did learn to recognize at least some of the local birds by their song, plumage, and nests.

Meet Willy! The BETO Club members learn the anatomy of the human body from this manikin.

JUNIOR ACTIVITIES

This year is prologued by happy anticipation. Your efforts in school seem to bring some tangible reward. You flash a ring before the eyes of the underclasses. You enhance your feminine beauty with the softness and fullness of an evening gown as you set out for the Junior Prom. But you also realize that you are receiving a larger share of responsibility. The class of '59 has proven that they, by their good will and efficiency will proudly and capably assume leadership at Seton.

The eyes of the Junior class are on Pat Fogg and Pat Mister as they practice for the Garden Party skit.

Anticipating their Rhapsody in Blue, Juniors, Barbara Heacock, Maury Minor and dates ascend the stairs to the beautifully decorated auditorium.

JUNIOR PROM

February 14, 1958, went down in the minds of the junior class, as one of the greatest occasions in their lives. For many girls, it was a night of great expectations, since it was their first big formal dance. "The Men of Note", playing familiar favorites, were an essential part in making this an unforgettable evening. As the girls in pastel gowns and their dates streamed out of the prom, the strains of "Rhapsody in Blue" followed them down the paths of memories.

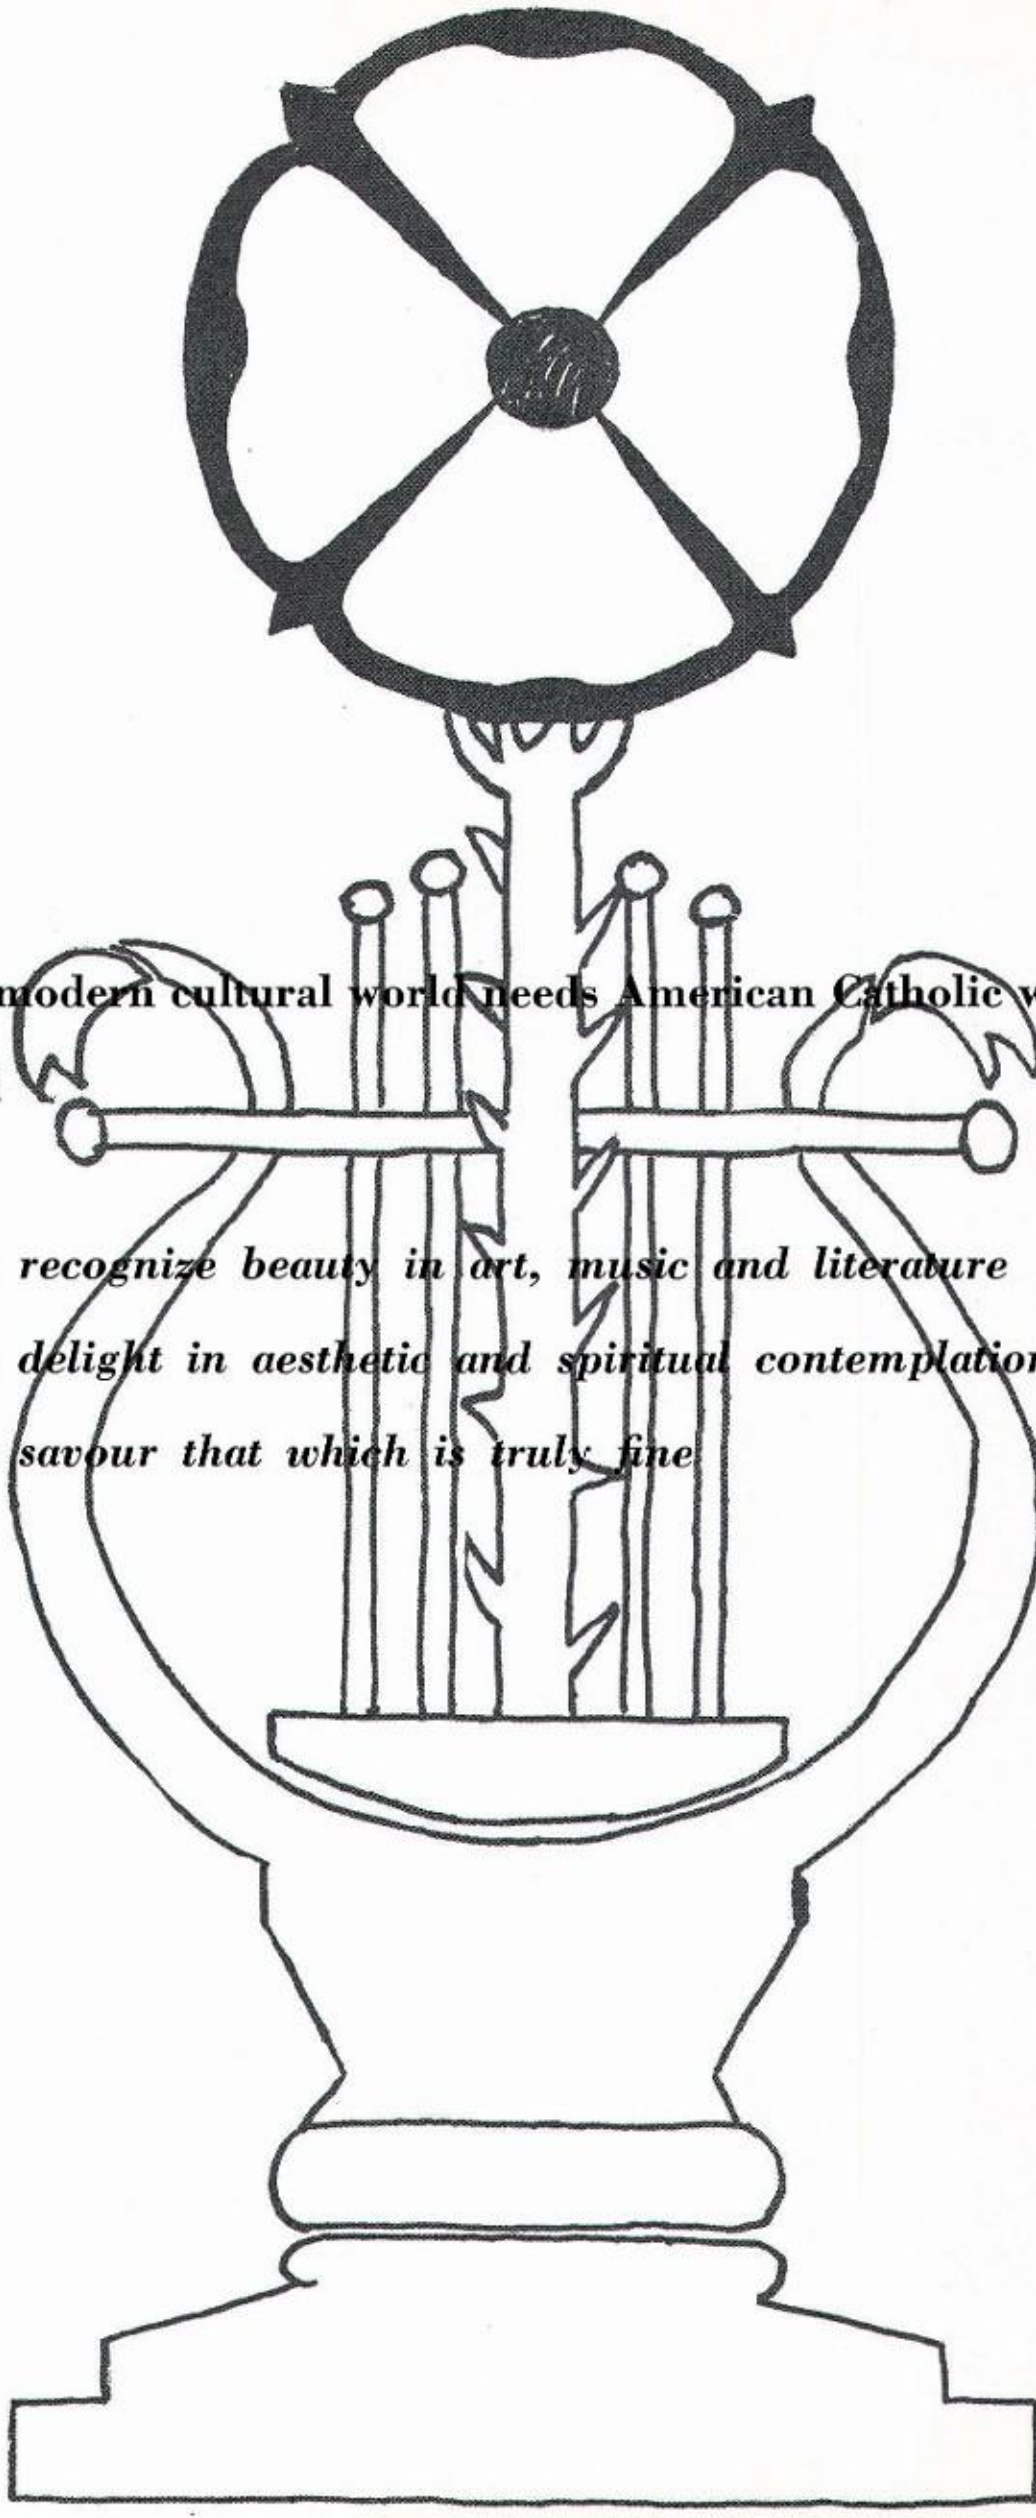

The receiving line, consisting of parents of juniors, graciously welcomed the early arrivals at the Junior Prom.

At the Junior Prom, Edwina Wilhelmson, as President of the class, honors Our Lady with the presentation of a bouquet.

Clubs

The modern cultural world needs American Catholic womanhood

to recognize beauty in art, music and literature to delight in aesthetic and spiritual contemplation to savour that which is truly fine

With the perfecting of intelligence must go training for leadership.

LEADERS CLUB

All clubs serve an educational purpose. We learn so much from the various activities—much not included in textbooks. We develop the art of taking orders gracefully and how to get along with others. All clubs are coordinated by the Leaders Club which is an assemblage of the heads of all school organizations presided over by the president of the Children of Mary. "Nearer to Jesus—closer to Mary" was the motto of the Leaders Club during this school year.

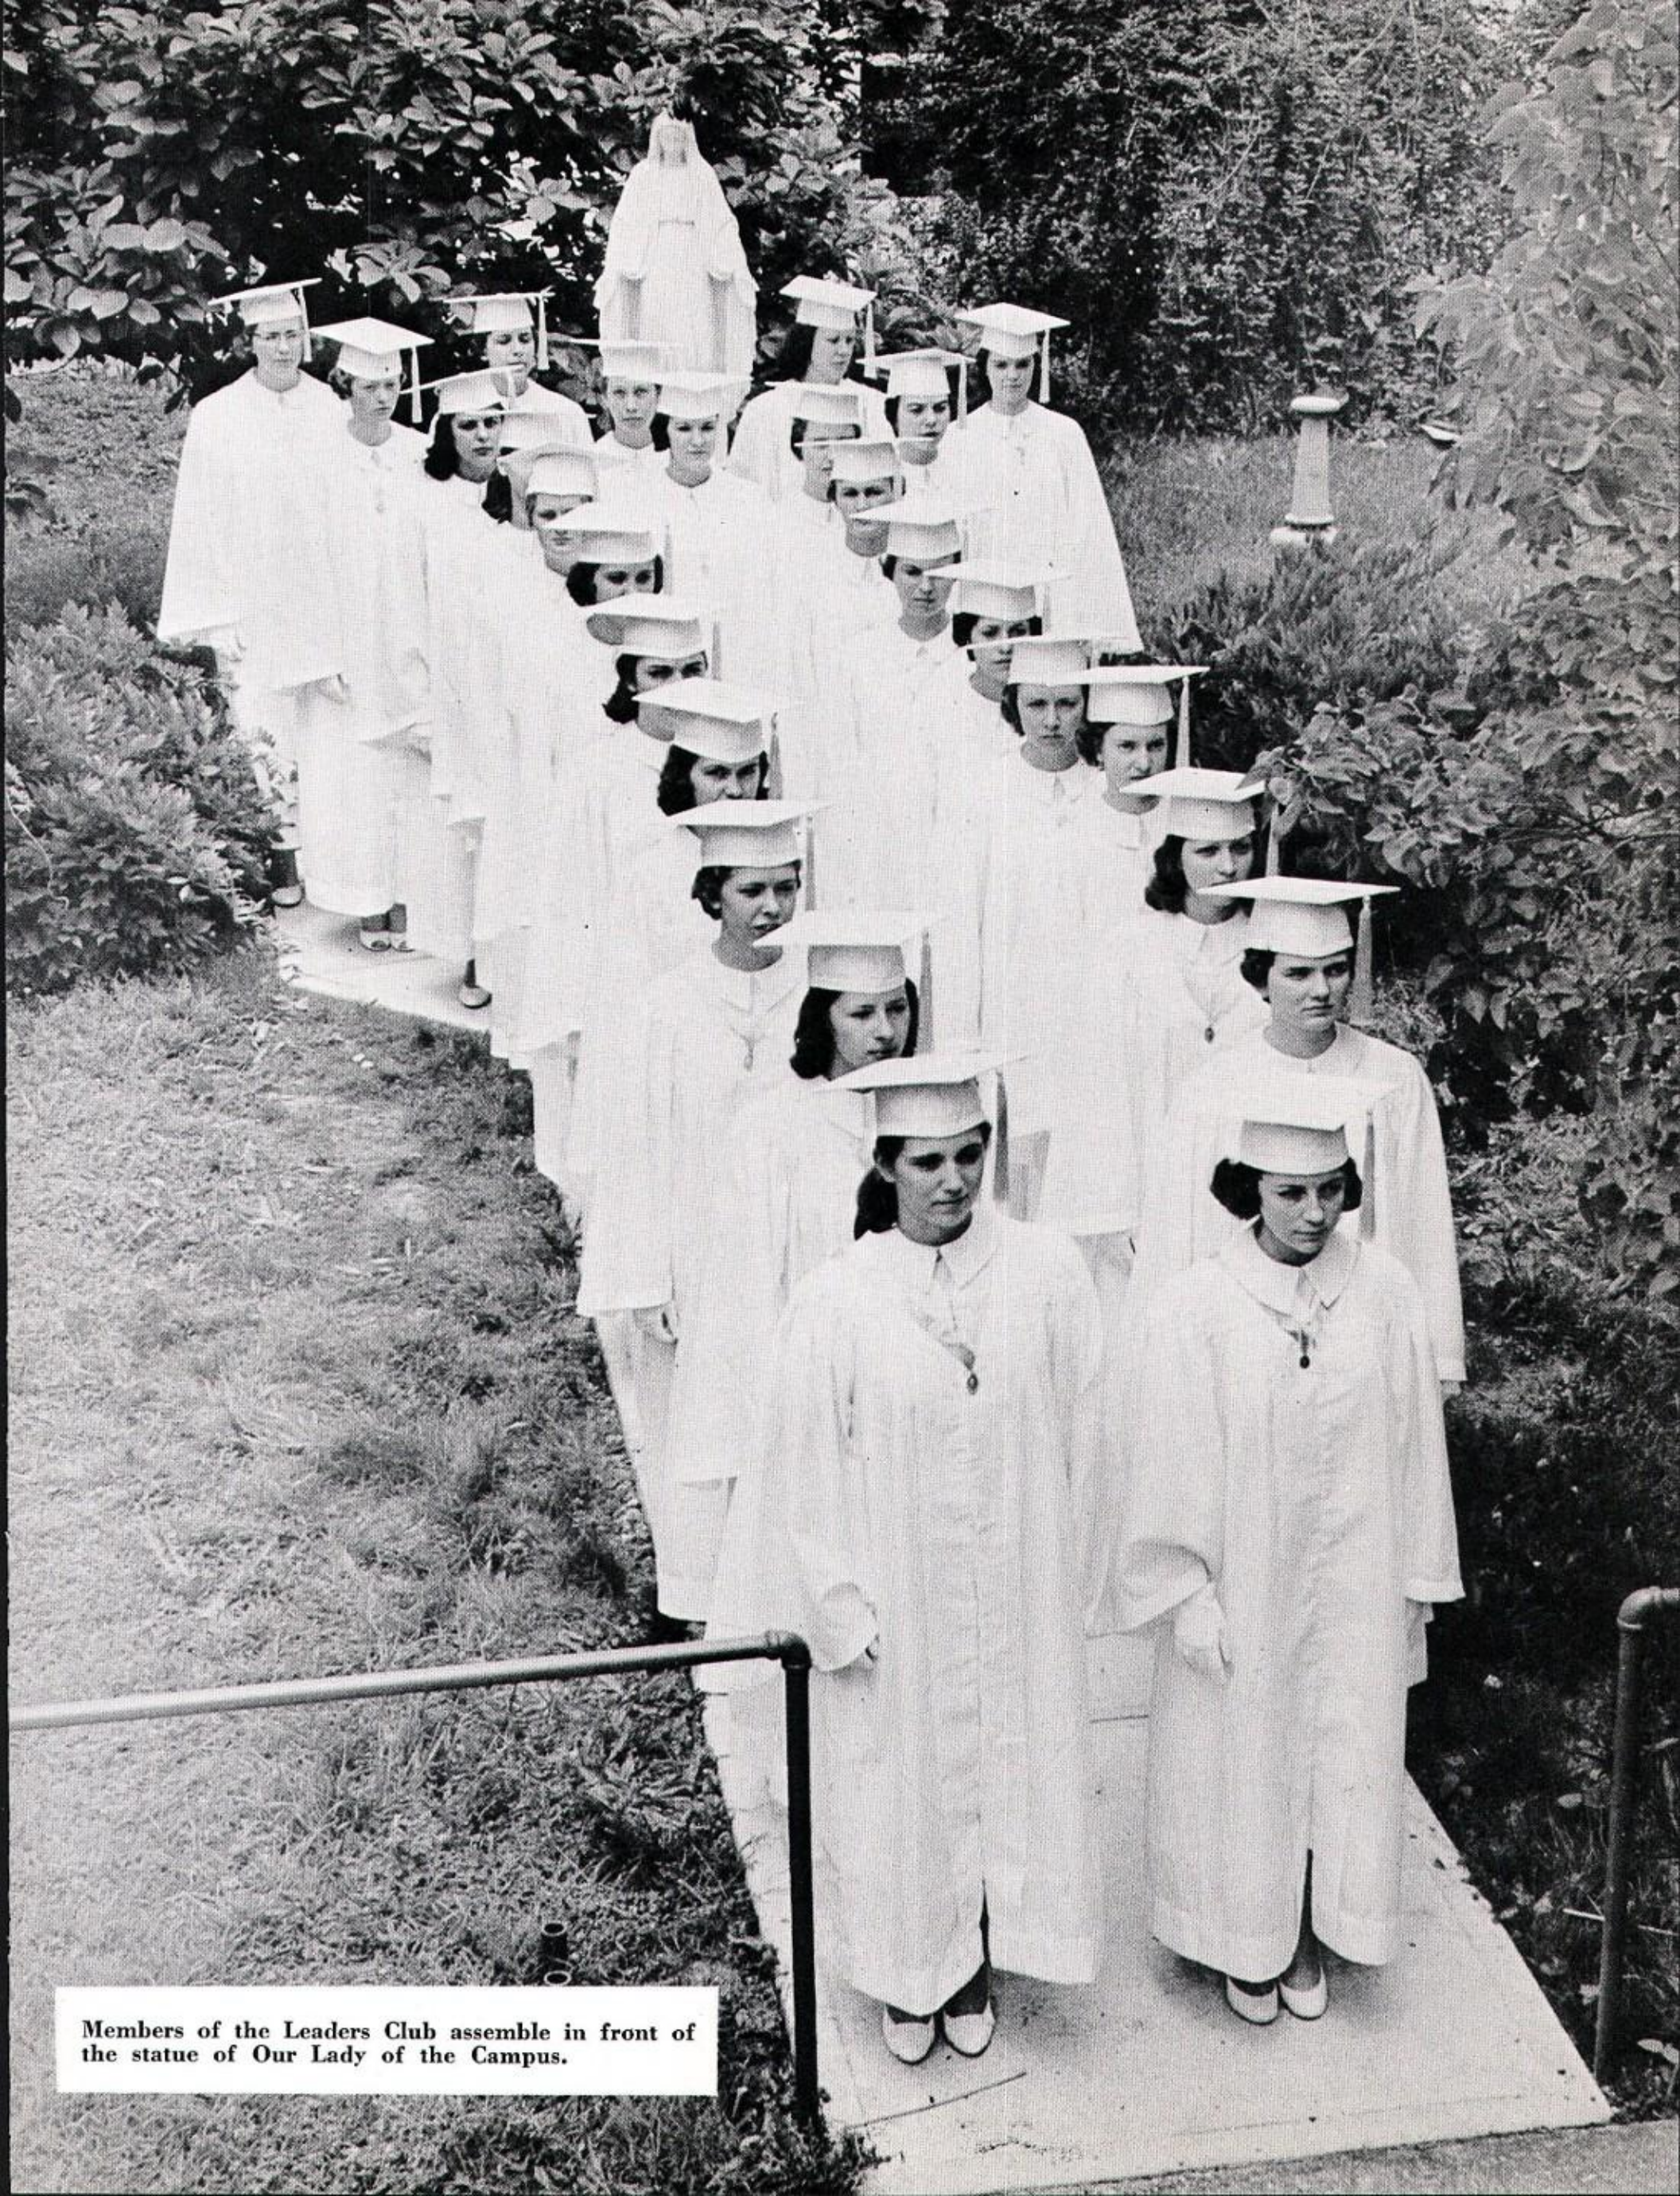

Jean Ziolkowski, Patricia Johnson and Mary Patricia Johnston discuss plans for the next Leaders Club meeting.

Marlene Bisasky, Mary Catherine Monius, Katherine Simon, and Seton Finnessy smile as Sister Dolores serves them refreshments at the Leaders Club party.

Members of the Leaders Club assemble in front of the statue of Our Lady of the Campus.

There is no better model for the American Catholic woman.

Sister Constantia supervises Peggy Sanks and Barbara Zerhusen as they prepare a bulletin board.

MOTHER SETON GUILD

Mother Seton Guild is numbered among the spiritual organizations here at Seton. Its primary purpose is to work for furthering the cause of canonization of Elizabeth Ann Seton. Essay and poster contests help to awaken the interest of the student body in the saintly life of their patroness. Daily prayer is also offered for this cause.

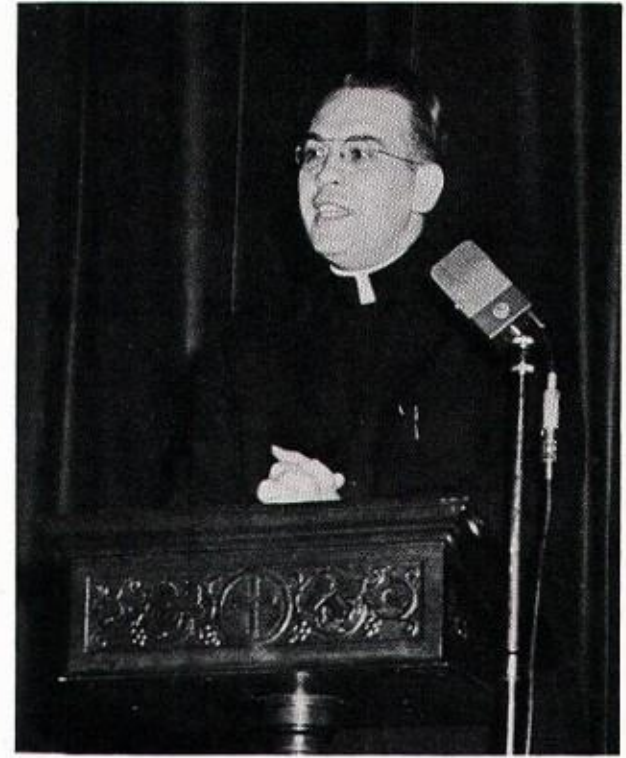

The officers of the Guild, Paula Skelton, Anna Marie Moylan, Barbara Zerhusen and Peggy Sanks, look at scenes from the life of Mother Seton.

Woman is a reflection of God.

LEGION OF THE SACRED HEART

The Legion of the Sacred Heart has for its aim and purpose prayer and sacrifice for religious vocations in the Archdiocese of Baltimore. Father John McCall, director of this organization at Seton, gives generously of his time for group conferences and private interviews.

Working under the direction of Monsignor Ells, archdiocesan director of vocations, Father McCall has developed a program whereby he visits Seton two days a month. Setonites find this program both enlightening and interesting.

Father McCall addresses student body at one of the monthly meetings.

Donna Marie Murphy initiates her sister, Eileen, into the practice of contributing to the Sacred Heart Legion sacrifice box.

One cannot live without beauty.

The Art Club uses various media to express an idea. Members of the club demonstrate the use of the bulletin board, water colors, and tempera paints.

ART CLUB

Drawing and painting should form a part of a complete education. The Art Club has as an objective to cultivate a taste for what is truly beautiful in art. Drawing, painting, and working with ceramics aid in accomplishing this end. Appreciation of great painters and great paintings develop in all members both aesthetic delight and a character that is noble.

Sister Ann Regis passes judgment on the efforts of Shirley Lantz, Rosemary Maisto, Pat Murphy, and Arlene Fields, officers of the Art Club.

Service to others is a beautiful practice.

VISUAL AIDS

The Visual Aids are rightly named for they are truly aides. Each member of this club must possess a sense of responsibility, for theirs is the task to see that all audio-visual aid equipment is where it belongs at the time it is required. Long hours outside of class are required checking lists, determining the condition of films, transporting equipment and taking inventory. During class this year the Aides increased their services by operating all equipment used for teaching purposes.

CCD

Quite a considerable amount of talent, energy, and good-will are needed to become members of the CCD. The idea inspiring all this enterprise is the desire to impart to others lessons of the faith that we often take for granted. The work is absorbing, but it is a certain way of sharing with the less fortunate a part of that Christian heritage which is ours. Members of this organization help teach in the parishes on Sundays. Many will also generously sacrifice their vacation time to teach religion courses.

A woman possesses an insight into the business world.

BUSINESS CLUB

Membership in the Business Club is open to all business students. Under the patronage of St. Joseph the Worker, the club endeavors to instill into all its members a love for the ideals required to take Christ into the business world. Students study ways and means to build up good work habits and concentrate on developing a Mary-like personality. The members of the Business Club have affiliated themselves with the National Future Business Leaders of America, an organization which now totals 40,000 members. Through active membership of worthwhile educational, vocational and leadership experience at local, state and national levels, activities include volunteer work for religious and civic organizations and field trips to business and industry. Special instructions from successful business leaders and graduates who have found a career in the business world are periodically given to members.

CHILDREN OF MARY

As we plan ahead for womanhood, we must not forget the very ideal of women, Mary, the Mother of God. The Children of Mary Association tries to put into daily practice those virtues which will make them resemble their model. Under the leadership of this organization, much charity has been practiced. One group visits City Hospital on various occasions taking with them timely treats and useful articles. Children of Mary Reception, Lourdes Week, and the annual May crowning have all made this year holier and happier for all members.

Patricia Johnson, president of the Children of Mary, closes the month of May by crowning the Blessed Mother as Queen of May and Queen of Seton.

CSMC

The CSMC is a spiritual organization which took for its motto this year, "Jesus, Mary, I love You! Save souls!" The unit includes all Setonites, who by their prayers and sacrifices, aim to make Christ better known and loved. Two representatives from each homeroom take turns in promoting the various mission activities. This year the CSMC reached a new height in its membership drive, Christmas card sale, Bolivian Drive, and the Bishops' Relief Fund. Some of their other activities include making green scapulars, rosaries, fixing chains and medals. The students consume hundreds of hours after school in this active apostolate.

for women's actions leaven the world.

LEGION OF DECENCY

Ever since its inception, the Seton Legion of Decency has endeavored to reach out and meet the demands of youth. It attempts to lay a snare for the indecency which undermines the principles of Catholic teachings.

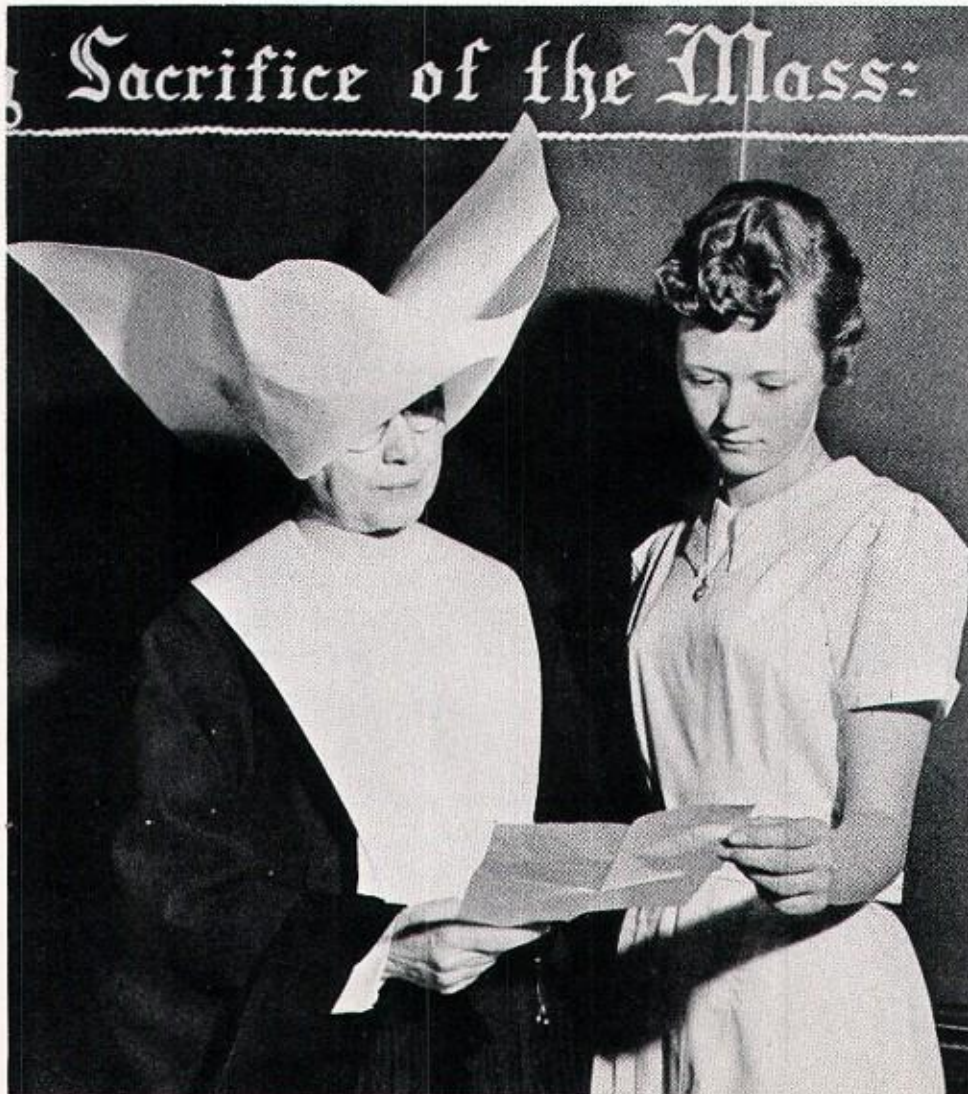

It has been gratifying to realize that the Legion of Decency Evaluation Committee now includes the rating of TV and radio programs as well as motion pictures. The homeroom representatives of this organization are wide-awake. Each week they notify their prospective classes of all approved current entertainment.

This year the members of the Legion of Decency here at Seton received from the Holy Father, The Apostolic Blessing and a letter of thanks for the good work they are doing.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Acting ability is not a prerequisite for admittance into the Dramatic Club. More important is a willingness to work for the success of dramatic productions. The club offers its own reward by developing poise and personality.

Staging, make-up, lighting and costuming are important factors in play productions. Members of the Dramatic Club are given training and practice in these fields.

That Sister Mary William trains in technique and presentation is attested by the productions of this year. The Christmas performance and the annual spring play, "The Divine Reward" were professionally done. Nor should we overlook the fact that the recognition scene from "Anastasia" won first place in the contest sponsored by St. Joseph College.

GLEE CLUB

Much has been contributed to the cultural side of Seton school life by Seton High Glee Club. Seton High Glee Club has contributed much to the cultural side of school life. Under the patient leadership of Sister Jane Marie and Mrs. VonRinteln, the Glee Club rehearsed in the early fall to present jointly with Mt. St. Joseph boys the operetta, "Don Alonso's Treasure." At the intermission in the Christmas Play, they delighted the student body with a program of familiar carols and hymns. Generously have they given their talents for PTA meetings and assemblies.

LIBRARY COUNCIL

The Library Council of Seton is synonymous with Loyalty, Courtesy, and Service. Most people look at the neatly arranged rows of books and admire the bulletin boards, but few realize that credit for this goes to a staff of outstanding Seton-ites who volunteer service for two hours a week before or after school. These girls service the library and process new books. They enjoy nibbling on cookies from the famous "Cookie Jar," plan "weinie roasts" at Seton Institute, attend conventions with the Poly boys, make merry at the annual Christmas party, soothe their tired nerves with Bing Crosby recordings; and in general keep Seton High students fancy-free and book-wise. President, Patricia Smith, and Vice-President, Mary Lynch, are two of the hard-working girls who can be seen in the library almost any morning or afternoon.

LOUISETTES AND RED CROSS

The Louise de Marillac take part in Catholic Action by giving spiritual and temporal assistance to the aged. Generosity and a spirit of sacrifice are the requisites for the members of the Louise de Marillac Association. Visits to the poor and sick means relinquishing one's own leisure time. Setonites visit City Hospital, Melchior Home, Montebello Hospital, Jenkins Memorial Hospital and the Little Sisters of the Poor. Their purpose is to shed happiness on those old people whose lives have felt the blight of sorrow or loneliness. "Violette" is a bi-monthly paper which keep all members posted on club activities. President, Patricia Endres, received the Catholic Action Award for outstanding service to others. Red Cross activities are also sponsored by the Louise de Marillac Association.

Promoting an interest in the French language and offering a chance to speak it, Le Cercle Français includes those students who have completed a year of French. Active and enthusiastic have the members of this school been toward the work of the French Club. "Les Cloches des Cieux" a portrayal of the life of Joan of Arc proved to faculty and student body that interest in the French language is not waning at Seton. DEBATING

In an age when speech has become but the vocal manifestation of emotion, prejudice, and sentiment, it becomes imperative to inaugurate a Forensic club. The dispositions which are so needed for our times—reasoning, contact with truth, habits of reflection, and self-control are developed by participation in the forensic arts. A member of the National Catholic Forensic League, Maritain Forensic Club at Seton High School, participates in the Annual Declamation, original oratory, debating, Student Congress, and extempore contests here in the Baltimore area. This year, two members, Geraldine Antkowiak and Mary Catherine Monius traveled to Chicago with the Baltimore League.

Miscellaneous

The modern complex world needs American Catholic womanhood

to solve its difficult problems of morality to enlighten its intellectually darkened horizon to set forth an example of good living

The Christ-life expresses itself in charity.

POOR FAMILIES

Charity is love. This intangible virtue must be applied to both God and neighbor, for one completes the other. Setonites strive to acquire a love for the poor by helping those less fortunate than they. Each homeroom "adopts" a needy family and the girls make them their own. Throughout the year the Setonites sacrifice in order that their families may obtain much-deserved care. During the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons, baskets are filled to overflowing. And it is a common sight at this time to see the girls and Sisters hammering, painting and reconstructing old toys. Setonites' "real" families also help by donating time and money. From the warm glow of contentment felt by the girls, the meaning of the old proverb is in evidence, namely, "It is better to give than to receive."

SERVICES

The pleasant atmosphere at Seton is achieved only by hard work on the part of Seton's helpers. They make cleanliness, good food and well-kept grounds a familiar sight. Appreciated also, is their willingness to do odd jobs which are necessary to run a school efficiently and smoothly.

PTA

Close harmony between school and home life brings about the fulfillment of Christian education. To achieve this end monthly meetings are held at school where parents can meet and confer with the faculty concerning their daughters scholastic progress. The seniors were fortunate this year in that they had two trips. The first was to the Naval Academy in Annapolis where the girls watched the Midshipmen change classes and drill. RETREAT

Retreat renders the student body the opportunity of evaluating their position as future Catholic leaders in a world where leadership is sorely needed. The retreat consists of general instructions, meditation in the chapel and religious readings. A special weekend retreat was held for Seniors this year at the Marian Retreat House. GRADUATION

As the last girl received her diploma, the realization that Seton was now a part of our past swept over us. We all knew this day would come but we have not expected it so soon. Many of these girls were in our freshman homerooms. What a long, long time ago that was, and now we are assembled together for the last time. We would never see many of these people again, but we would always remember them for they were a part of Seton and Seton composed our lives and thoughts for four years. As our lips sang the praises of God, our hearts were singing: Thank you, Dear God, for Seton, my Catholic education, my teachers, and all my friends.

George Monius, who has assisted with the conferring of diplomas for twenty years, finds a diploma for his daughter, Mary Catherine, among this year's graduates.

Graduates listen attentively as Bishop Sebastian sends them forth to give to Catholic womanhood the dignity that all womanhood has lost.

We have remembered

Dorothy Gunther

who prematurely celebrated her Eternal Commencement.
